Animal 1 explain medical issues

After the Bladder surgery in Banfield last March he got a rash like a bad psoriasis and lost most of his hair. We took him back to Banfield and they prescribed him another set of antibiotics and Diflucan because they said it could be a fungus infection (something that he did not have before the surgery) After that, we took him to Pine Castle Animal Hospital twice and they could not figure out what he has but another set of antibiotics were prescribed. He it not recovering and he has like a really bad psoriasis that it will not go away. The flakes that psoriasis produces are a lot and big and scaly and dusty and its daily. We give him showers often to get rid of the flakes and the vinegar smell but after a day everything will come back. The other problem is that I suffer from asthma and allergies and I've been coughing and lung sick ever since. I love my dog but he is suffering because of this and I am getting sick. In the picture for example, we cleaned his crate in the morning and in the afternoon it is like that and that is everyday.

Admin notes

3/7/23 Owner is becoming severely ill due to dogs skin condition. Was informed the dog was taken to two different vet offices and they are unable to determine what caused the issue. Owner stated when she took the dog to the vet back in march for a bladder surgery, it was not long after the dog broke out with a sin condition. I asked the owner to bring in all medical information for us to see . Owner was also informed of all our policies and procedures. C. Wildermuth
