How we can help you keep your animals?

Sunny is a sweet cat. I don't know what else i could do to keep her i don't want to give her up but as of the last couple years she's become more and more aggressive towards other animals in the house and humans. She was always a pet on her terms cat but as of lately something as simple as walking by her can cause her to swat at you. The last straw has been her trying to attack my dog unprovoked. The dog was readjusting herself on the couch in a completely separate room Sunny ran towards couch from room down the hallway and I grabbed her before she could reach the dog which resulted in my arm being the target instead. I was hoping getting her spayed would help with the hormones but at this rate i don't know if I can hold on to her that long.
