Reason for surrender

I am going to have a heart attack, we are senior citizens and cannot care for Charlie, he is our adult sons dog and he is dealing with schizophrenia, the dog is to much for us and it's gotten to the point I am physically falling apart from the dogs dominant characteristics, we cannot go outside to get the mail without going nuts and once outside he goes nuts barking at the neighbors to the point we're all exhausted! We cannot leave him outside as he will bark until you relent and bring him inside. It's and endless cycle of abuse for us. My eyes tick non stop from the anxiety I am facing. He knows what is right and wrong and yet the moment you turn your back he is doing wrong, he doesn't ever do what we want. We are not weak pack leaders, he chooses to do only what he wants

My current living situation is...

I would rather not say.

I have read and understood the pet rehome statement.

yes

I am begging for help

We are wore out

We have endured to the point of becoming physically l'll

We're emotionally distraught

We are senior citizens and our adult son will not be coming back for his dog as he is dealing with schizophrenia, which has left us as the dogs caretaker. We cannot love a normal life, the dog needs what we cannot give. Just writing this I can feel the enormous misery inside my brain and pulsating pain in my chest.

I cannot imagine that we've gotten to this point, who gets rid of a dog?

We hate our lives

We live in misery

We now are hateful towards the dog

We wake up and he is there

We go to bed and he is there

It's all about overcoming his antics

Please help, please

I make a cup of coffee and within seconds I cannot find where I put the cup, my mind is in turmoil, I am falling apart!
